Illinois Electors Gather Dec. 13 to Vote on President

Frank B. Wilson, Polo, One of 28 Democrats Picked by Voters

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 13—(AP)—Twenty-eight Illinois men will meet in the governor's office here next month to help choose the next president of the United States.

Illinois voters, although they marked their election ballot for president and vice-president, actually were choosing 28 Democrats as electors, even though their names did not appear on the ballot.

The date for the electors' meeting is the same in all states and is fixed by congress as the first Monday after the second Wednesday in December. That day is Dec. 13 this year.

The electors are chosen at state conventions of each political party having presidential and vice-presidential candidates.

By Congressional Votes
The number is determined by the total congressional members of the state. Illinois has 28 of the 551 electoral votes in the nation because it has 26 representatives and two U. S. senators.

When the electors meet here, they will choose a chairman and secretary. Each will receive a ballot listing the presidential and vice-presidential nominees of each party. Because he carried the state, Truman will get all 28 electoral votes.

The 28 marked ballots will remain in the secretary of state's office in Springfield. A formal notice containing the results, affixed with the state seal, will be sent to the president of the U. S. senate.

The senate presiding officer will open the messages from each state and read them before a joint session of congress. The candidate receiving a majority will be declared the new president.

List Demos Electors
Democratic electors who will convene in Springfield are:

John L. Oljanczak, Robert H. Miller, Herbert J. Nickelson, William Lake, John F. O'Toole, William Jay Robinson, Eugene P. Mcany, Charles Kordowski, Matthias Bauler, Jacob A. Muller and Frank Lyman, all of Chicago.

Also, W. W. Daly, McLeansboro; Valentine N. Slivinski, Lemont; John J. Callahan, River Forest; Jack Baird, Waukegan; Charles E. Day, Aurora; Martin P. Gleson, Joliet; Frank B. Wilson, Polo; Will F. Costigan, Bloomington; James J. Manning, Peoria; Marx

"Kitty Hawk" Will End Trip in Plane

Washington, Nov. 13—(AP)—The rickety little airplane which made the world's first successful flight will return home to America aboard a majestic U. S. aircraft carrier.

The Wright Brothers' historic "Kitty Hawk" will be carried on the last leg of its trip from England by the carrier Palau, the Navy announced last night.

Originally scheduled to arrive in New York yesterday aboard the liner Mauretania, the plane was sidetracked to Halifax when the British ship put in there to avoid the dock workers' strike along the United States east coast.

The Palau will leave the Nova Scotian port on November 17. On its arrival in New York, the "Kitty Hawk" will be loaded aboard Navy vans and transported here to take the top honor position in the Smithsonian Institution.

"Abundance" Key to Farm Programs of Country: Brannan

Agriculture Secretary in Grange Speech Hints at New Policies

Portland, Me., Nov. 13—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan said today the Truman administration's future farm programs will emphasize "abundance" production.

As a consequence, he said, both farmers and the government will have to learn to "live successfully with abundance."

The cabinet officer gave this cue to future government farm policies in a speech prepared for the National Grange convention.

Before the war, the Democratic administration farm programs employed production control and curtailment measures to combat surpluses and low farm prices.

Lists Three Necessities
Brannan said three things will be needed to make a program of full farm output work. He listed them as:

(1) Full employment and good wages for urban workers so that they might be good customers of the farmer.

(2) An "adequate" export market.

(3) Expansion in the present federal school lunch program and possibly new consumer subsidy programs to "take up the slack of commodities in temporary surplus and to place a floor under food consumption in times of low purchasing power."

With an obvious emphasis on subsidized consumption, Brannan said that "if we are to have abundance, we must employ every reasonable means to assure a continued use of abundance."

Conservation Necessary—
Another problem facing farmers,

Marshall Denies He Plans Resignation

Paris, Nov. 13—(AP)—U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall said today he had made no definite plans to resign.

In a statement given to reporters by the American delegation to the United Nations Marshall said: "I note in this morning's press a statement alleging that I still cling to my original intention to resign from the cabinet by Jan. 20. I regret that my remarks at the press conference yesterday have been misconstrued. I thought I had made it obvious that I would never take a decision of this nature without discussing it with the president, and that he and I have never discussed the matter."

East Coast Ships Are Idled by Dock Workers' Strike

Walkout May Spread to Gulf, South Atlantic Ports, Fear

(By the Associated Press)
Shipping operations along the east coast from Maine to Virginia were nearly paralyzed today by a strike of 65,000 AFL dock workers in a dispute over wages.

Across the country, at west coast ports, CIO longshoremen have been on strike for more than two months. But there was some hopes of settling that walkout which stemmed from a dispute over a new contract.

In another labor development involving wages, some 125,000 members of three railroad unions accepted a pay increase of 10 cents an hour from the nation's carriers.

Another favorable development along the labor front was the back-to-work order sent out to 13,500 CIO-United Auto Workers in four Detroit area Chrysler Corp plants. They had been off the job this week in a production rate dispute.

State and County Will Repair Road If Builder Balks

Holes in the Rock Island road will be fixed by the county and state if the contractor fails to make the repairs and the expense of the work will be withheld from contract settlement. It was decided yesterday afternoon at the board of supervisors meeting.

The decision came after Ralph M. Ferguson, district engineer for the state highway division here, and Fred W. Leake, county superintendent of highways, appeared before the board.

Ferguson indicated he would ask the contractor Standard Paving Company to make the repairs, but if no action was taken the state and county agencies would do the work.

Leake told the board yesterday morning he was afraid county action in repairing the road would be taken as approval of the resurfacing job. County and state have withheld approval of the work.

Estimate on Improvement
The board also received a preliminary estimate on the cost of installing an elevator in the courthouse from George Lundquist, contractor, who estimated the job would cost approximately $35,000.

No action was taken on the report by the board.

The board, in addition to approving bills which included election expenses for judges and clerks of registration and election, also approved appropriation and levy ordinances for the new fiscal year, Dec. 1 to Dec. 1, 1949.

By departments, the levy ordinance included: General purposes, $117,000; highway, $59,220; TB fund, $21,150; health, $28,200. Appropriations: General, $227,120; highway, $120,150; TB fund, $36,185; health department, $32,000.

Seal Sale Plays Part in World Health Level

The National Tuberculosis association was represented by five delegates when the Council of the International Union against Tuberculosis met in Paris in September 1948.

Each delegate stressed the importance in its own country. In considering the control of tuberculosis and other diseases communicable from man to man, we must realize that there never has been such a world wide mixing of peoples.

The United States still has thousands of young men serving in our armed forces all over the world. We are exchanging, as we have never exchanged before, our scientific advances, our cultures, and at the same time our infections.

It was stressed over and over again at the World Health Assembly that the only real protection against tuberculosis is eradication of the disease in all countries.

Although the people of our community must give first consideration to adequate support of our own local control program, these important wider horizons cannot be overlooked.

When you Tuberculosis Christ-mas Seals reach your home on November 22, we urge you to have a part in this most worth-while program.

Experts' Estimate of Corn Crop Hiked

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 13—(AP)—Illinois bumper 1948 corn crop has taken on new weight with state-federal crop forecasters hiking their production estimate to 531,000,000 bushels.

This is 18,000,000 bushels more than forecast a month ago. The indicated total harvest exceeds the 1916 former all-time high mark by 16,000,000 bushels.

A 61-bushel yield per acre was predicted. This gives Illinois and Iowa the highest yield ever recorded by any state.

Federal Crop Statistician A. J. Suratt said the 1948 crop seasons rates as one of the best in Illinois history from the standpoint of principal grain crops.

Soybean estimates were boosted to 77,000,000 bushels, up about 500,000 bushels over the October outlook. The record high soybean crop was 77,000,000 in 1916.

Other 1948 crop forecasts, with 1947 production in parentheses: Winter wheat, 40,425,000 bushels ($28,350,000); oats, 175,305,000 (117,005,000); apples, 2,101,000 (1,187,000); pears, 539,000 (402,000); broomcorn 1,500 tons (2,000); all hay, 3,584,000 tons (3,810,000).

Lie, Evatt Appeal Personally to Big Four for Solution

Offer to Aid in Settlement of Berlin Dispute in New Peace Plea

Paris, Nov. 13—(AP)—The president of the United Nations assembly and the UN secretary general made an urgent personal appeal today to the chief executives of the United States, Russia, Britain and France to settle the Berlin dispute at once.

Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian foreign minister, who is president of this assembly session, and Trygve Lie, the secretary-general, offered their good offices to the four big powers in efforts to solve the dispute. Their action was without precedent in the UN.

The two invoked the recent Mexican resolution approved unanimously by the assembly, which had called upon the big four to do all possible to settle all their differences.

Ask Urgent Consideration
The appeal was sent to the chief delegate here of the four powers, with the request that it be sent to President Truman, Prime Minister Stalin, Prime Minister Attlee and Premier Queunelle.

Evatt and Lie asked the four to give this appeal urgent consideration. They said they believed the first step toward settlement of major differences would be a solution of the Berlin case.

Soviet Russia has blockaded western Berlin by land since June 23, and attempts in the UN security council to resolve the issue have failed thus far.

Secretary of State Marshall said yesterday the case still is before the security council and that the west still is looking to the so-called neutrals of the council for anything they may propose as a solution. Russia vetoed their first proposal.

"Fear of War Crippling"
The Evatt-Lie letter said in part:

"Every day that the deadlock over Berlin continues, the danger to the peace and security of all nations continues undiminished."

"Fear of another war is crippling the effort of all nations to repair the damage of the last war and return once more to the ways of peace."

"The work of the general assembly and of the United Nations as a whole in every field of endeavor is being delayed and undermined."

Evatt and Lie told the four leaders it is within their power to end this danger to peace.

"We therefore respectfully urge upon the governments of France, the Union of Soviet Socialist Re-

Hog, Cattle, Sheep Prices Lower Today

Chicago, Nov. 13—(AP)—Hogs, cattle and sheep were quoted at substantially lower prices in the livestock market today than a week ago. A heavy outpouring of meat animals from the country met a limited demand all week.

Hogs tumbled $2.00 to $3.00 for the week in what the agriculture departments described as "the most severe decline of the current marketing season." Prices ended at the lowest point for November since 1915 with the best grade bringing $22.85 a hundred pounds.

In the cattle section, steers suffered the widest losses, dropping 50 cents to $2.00 a hundred pounds. Lambs fell $1.00 to $1.25.

Farmers sent large numbers of livestock to 12 major markets. The agriculture department estimated cattle receipts at 265,000 head against 205,000 in the previous week, hogs 311,000 against 286,000 and sheep 192,000 against 172,000.

Her attorney contended the railroad was negligent in failing to give the rail car foreman a schedule of the trains operating over the single track.

Mrs. Phipps claimed she has been crippled for several years by a hip ailment and is unable to support her family. Her oldest child is 13.

Thousands of Ohioans Lost Votes: They Marked Too Many Candidates

Columbus, O., Nov. 13—(AP)—Thousands of Ohioans perhaps as many as 100,000 of them lost their vote for president in the Nov. 2 election because they voted for too many candidates.

The survey of the various county election boards showed further that practically all invalid ballots resulted from the voter making his ballot with a cross for either President Truman or Governor Dewey, and then going over to the list of 25 Wallace elector candidates and voting for one or more of them.

REFINISHING CEDAR CHESTS

Question: How would I go about removing the old finish and refinishing two cedar chests? They are somewhat dented in a few places. Do the metal nails need to be removed? What if I use varnish or a stain plus varnish plus wax?

Answer: You could sand the self, depending on whether or not the color of the wood is good after taking off the old finish. If it looks all right with the finish off, you could apply two coats of varnish or a stain plus varnish plus wax. If you wish to remove the old finish, you could use a good quality white shellac. You might also consider applying a penetrating wax which would give a somewhat dull finish. A higher lustre could be obtained by waxing afterward. The penetrating wax comes in clear tones, or combined with a wood stain. I do not think that it is necessary to remove the metal nails. Cover them with a masking tape or use be careful to wipe off spatters properly. Before refinishing, all doors and drawers should be removed. The question of the recently purchased house has sulphur in the water supply, which comes from a well. We plan to try one of the advertised methods of eliminating the sulphur. But in the meantime, how can we correct the condition that I believe is caused by the sulphur? The walls, ceiling and woodwork in the bath, quick-drying varnish, drilling in an excellent condition (except first coat by a light sanding and dusting off. If you do not care for the color of the bath wood, you could put on a good stain and varnish even though the window finish with varnish. If you wish to leave it open at all times. The only wax polish applied to the coat is a laundry bleach.

ponged with clear water afterwards, and this did bleach everything snow white again, but this is very temporary. In less than a week it's back in the same condition. Can you advise what to do?

Answer: It might help to some extent to avoid raising so much steam in the bathroom. When running water in the tub or sink, turn the cold water first. This should prevent some of the steaming. Correcting the chemical content of the water is the only real solution to the problem.

House For A Narrow Plot

There has always been a question about the ability to build a kind of a small house on a narrow, five-foot lot. The plan and elevation shown here may be the answer to that question.

A small one-story house, set in the center of a standard lot, is built upon eighteen and twenty foot lots, and which cover the entire plot. It is essential that the owner of such a small piece of property be sure of the local restrictions and ordinances before attempting to build upon it.

If restrictions permit, and there are no limitations on side lines, the house may be moved far over on the plot against one side line so as to have nearly a ten-foot open space along one side of the house.

Considering the area involved, this house presents about the maximum in accommodations which it is possible to attain.

(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Building on a twenty-five foot lot may have complications. While that dimension usually represents the standard plot, restrictions often specify that a house cannot be built on less than two lots. On the other hand, many large cities have thousands of houses which are built upon eighteen and twenty foot lots, and which cover the entire plot. It is essential that the owner of such a small piece of property be sure of the local restrictions and ordinances before attempting to build upon it.

If restrictions permit, and there are no limitations on side lines, the house may be moved far over on the plot against one side line so as to have nearly a ten-foot open space along one side of the house.

New Tax Proposals to be Squelched by GOP State Senators

Decision Reached at Meet of 30 Majority Members in Chicago Yesterday

Chicago, Nov. 13 (AP) The Republican majority of the state Senate has sent out word that it will squelch any proposals for new taxes at the coming legislative session.

The decision was reached Tuesday at a meeting here of 30 of the 32 majority members.

The Republicans have no intention of becoming obstructionists to the program of Democratic Governor-elect Adlai Stevenson, a committee of spokesmen said, but they added that the party will oppose additional taxes to finance Democratic commitments.

The policy the spokesmen explained, will be to "act as we did toward Governor Green." They said that means that they will decide for themselves whether measures up for consideration would benefit the greatest number.

"Just Get-Together" Senator Simon E. Lantz of Congerville said the meeting, called at the request of five senators was "just a get-together" and that he planned to call the group into another similar session next month or early in January. The action was the first of its kind in state legislative planning.

The Republicans, who lost control of the house and the major state offices, still have a 32 to 18 majority in the senate.

Spokesmen for the meeting were senators Charles Carpenter of East Moline, Everett Peters of St.

Joseph, and Dennis Collins of DeKalb

Sherwood Dixon to Preside

They said the group also decided to re-study the rights of the senate's presiding officer and the senators in the conduct of the legislative branch. The new presiding officer will be a Democrat, Lieutenant-Governor Sherwood Dixon.

Carpenter announced his candidacy for the office of senate president pro tempore to succeed Edward Laughlin of Freeport. Laughlin said he is not a candidate for reelection but that he would accept the assignment.

Rep. Warren L. Wood of Plainfield said he will seek the office of house floor leader. Rep. G. William Herslev, Jr. of Springfield also has been mentioned for that post.

Future of T-H Law

One of the very important factors in the reelection of President Truman was the action of laboring men who listened to his demand that the Taft-Hartley law be repealed. In his campaign Mr.
Truman implied that if elected he would "repeal" the Taft-Hartley law.

Now everybody knows that no President can either make a law or repeal one. What Mr. Truman meant, and what he wanted the people to understand was that he would call upon congress to repeal the law, and that he would sign the repealer if congress so acted. He even urged the people to vote out the old congress and return a new personnel so that his repeal program could be put into effect.

Now Mr. Truman is re-elected and the personnel of congress has been altered drastically. Much of the change is due to the work of laboring men who voted Democratic. Some of them might have voted otherwise had it not been for the campaign against the T-H act.

So it will be up to Mr. Truman to demand that congress repeal the law, and it will be up to congress to listen carefully, because the demand of so large and active a segment of the population can't be ignored.

There are three possibilities.
President Truman might call for outright repeal, get it and let it go at that.

Or he might compromise with legislators who believe some labor law is necessary and accept a new bill repealing sections of the act most disliked by laboring men.

Or he might demand repeal and fail to get it.

As to the first possibility we understand that the T-H law is a series of amendments to the Wagner act, so that if T-H is repealed, the Wagner act would go back into force as beforehand. This was unsatisfactory to some elements of labor.

As to the second possibility, an amendment of T-H probably would wipe out those parts interpreted as banning the closed shop and that part alleged to infringe upon the freedom of the press to name only two sections. When polled on many parts of the law, large numbers of laboring men were in favor of them.

As to the third possibility, we

As Pegler Sees It
By WESTBROOK PEGLER

There are early indications that President Truman, having a "mandate" now, will cause his congress to re-enact the essentials of the Taft-Hartley law under another name. It was small of him to deny Taft and Hartley due credit for the reform which they almost wrought, but that is politics. It is mean and sordid profession which makes bombast of its rough chivalry but abhors honor as a vice.
However, Taft and Hartley would be the last to claim that they actually revealed the crimes of unionism or even were the first to oppose them. They studied the facts managed a new law through congress in good political weather and put it through again over the veto. In the process, however, it got cluttered like a chattel morgage and the result has been a law which most of those concerned, including me, never have been able to plod through and couldn't have understood anyway.

The odds are that Green and Murray have never read it but took the word of parasite slysters of the racket that it was bad for them. And it may be taken as a fact that Truman hasn't read it either. This being so, the fact is plain that the citizen-voters who were exhorted to destroy it lest it destroy them had read only the self-serving damnations of the act which were holed up and down the land by the licensed grafters and their political patrons. Truman's concurrence in this fraud was ironic because he had twice invoked the Taft-Hartley law to avert anarchy and save his administration.

The facts of union outrage which finally put congress in a mood to act had been accumulating for years. Congressmen Howard Smith of Virginia, Sam Hobbs, of Alabama and Halton Summers, of Texas ran an expose early in the war, before that, Mr. Smith, an implacable conscience with a Pur-itan's awful zeal, had proved that two unmistakable Communists held jocular jobs in the labor relations board, planted there, of course, by the evil cabal from Harvard law.

All these efforts were thwarted by Congressman Mary Norton, of Jersey, City, a female honest John as gross and offensive to civic hygiene as her ineffable boss Frank Hague. She had charge of the labor committee under Roosevelt and her personal adherence at home included Joe Fay and a whole roster of kindred criminals in command of unions. If Truman should find it in himself to call his new law the Pegler Emancipa-tion act, modesty would yield to patriotism and I would not turn have not seen a breakdown on how many pro-Taft-Hartley law legislators were elected are re-elected on November 2. In any event we do not know how they would vote on a repealer after having scanned the November 2 election returns.

Senator Lucas of Illinois first voted for the T-H law, but later voted to sustain the President's veto. He might be expected to vote for repeal. Senator Douglas probably would vote for repeal.

him down, but what's in a name, after all?
Citizens often criticize congressmen for voting their party lines on bills without bothering to read and trying to understand. This comes with bad grace from people who vote, as millions did, the other day, not on information but according to the motivated bellows of rascals who run the unions.
The Taft-Hartley law did not totally forbid the closed shop although even Frances Perkins, late secretary of labor, once was forced to say it should be forbidden. That she did in a speech to a national convention of the AFL in Seattle, a stronghold of unionized journalism, which significantly failed to send the news to the country. Even Roosevelt himself was tricked into condemnation of the closed shop when, in the scrap with John L.
Lewis about the "captive coal mines, he said that to force the miners into John L.'s union would be "Hitler's way." Lewis himself has admitted that the union shop and the checkoff would not be necessary if the men were willing to maintain their membership and pay their tribute to him. In other words, they aren't willing.

As the pioneer campaigned against rackets, persecutions, irresponsibility, riotous picketing, discrimination, job-selling, life-tenure of office in unions, secret financial accounts, Communist manipulation, corruption of the public ballot by union crooks with union money, corrupt union elections, involuntary strikes, compulsory picketing and the tenure of office by unpardoned convicts, I nevertheless felt dissatisfied with the Taft-Hartley law.

I have seriously doubted the wisdom of having any nation union law at all, for it has seemed impossible to write an enforceable law which could serve the true purposes desired without causing corruption. The Wagner act was such a leering imposition on the people's gullible trust that I may have been driven to an extreme position by hatred of the hypocrites involved and the criminals whom they deliberately invited to power. But it is plain that we are condemned to suffer certain effects of some such law and the prudent thing in that case is to make it as beneficial as we can.

Who got the benefits of the Wagner act? The workers did get higher wages, but Truman discredited that gain in his campaign diatribes. Anyway, most of these raises were political bribes from Roosevelt, not against the high cost of living gains won by bargaining agents. But actually the people got no more buying power for an hour's work than they got in 1929 and they are now kicking back income taxes and a fantastic federal extortion in the guise of social security. The social security fund meanwhile has been stolen and squandered, leaving not a dollar in the kitty of billions collected. And the social security payments are so paltry that a basket-case wouldn't give up a shoestring and tin-clip clientele to qualify for this dole.

In addition to these exactions the citizen is still subject to unlimited extortions by union racketeers, notwithstanding the Taft-Hartley law. And the union constitutions still violate many rights conferred on Americans by the constitution of the United States.
The real beneficiaries of the Wagner act were Senator Robert

F. Wagner, a pathetic reproach to the intelligence of the people who couldn't find a way to throw him out the Roosevelt and the Truman administrations, the union bosses, including the ja-birds and yet-to-be-convicted criminals and greediest of all, the horrible horde of corrupt lawyers in the special practice of union law.

HOLLYWOOD

BY BOB THOMAS
Hollywood (AP) What happens when a star misbehaves in public?

The question was directed at Dore Schary, production boss at MGM most star-laden of the studios.
"The star is brought to the studio and talked to," Schary answered. "He is told to straighten himself out, not only for his own good, but for the good of the studio and the industry."

Does being jailed and other bad publicity hurt a star's popularity?
"The history of the United States shows that the American public is essentially sympathetic.
When an American reads about a star being caught drunk, he figures 'That's all right, I've been drunk myself'."

"However, if the offenses are repeated, or the star is involved in an unsavory scandal, he will lose the public's sympathy and suffer a gradual decline in popularity."
That brought us to the question
"What makes a movie star?"
"It takes several factors—talent, appearance, personality. But most important is what you can call animal magnetism or projection. It's the ability to reach the sympathy of an audience."
"Sometimes this magnetism comes over immediately. Jimmy Cagney was an instant hit when he played Lew Ayres' friend in "Doorway to Hell." Others take longer to put it across.

"Clark Gable was well known in pictures, but was never a top star until it happened 'One Night'.
Spencer Tracy was another slow starter."

Can a studio create stars?
many things for players—create a personality for them, gave them No. The studio can provide leading roles and get them before the public by means of the columns and magazines. But only the public can make them stars." Schary illustrated with a top stage actress who made several artistic successes in Hollywood, but was never a box-office star. The public never went for her,

I could name several who never hit the big time despite heavy ballinooning—Simone Simon, Anna Sten etc.

Is the star system a menace to good pictures, as some critics claim?

"That is especially true of the movies," Schary said. "The people want to have heroes to pull for with their eyes to the theater. That's why only the people can make a star."

THE STORY
Time, 1880 Place, New Orleans
Louis Durand, 27, a bachelor, has been corresponding with Miss Julia Russell, whom he has never seen. He has proposed marriage and she has accepted. According to her picture, Miss Russell is a dark-haired, strong-featured and no longer young. Durand goes down to the dock to meet the boat that is to bring her from St. Louis.
He is dumfounded when an exquisite young blond creature introduces herself as Julia.

III
HIS hat fell from his fingers to the ground, and rolled once about, for the length of half its brim. He bent and retrieved it, but only with his arm and shoulder;
his face never once quitted hers, as though held to it by an unbreakable magnetic current.
"But no—How can?"
"Julia Russell," she insisted, still smiling.

"But no—You can't!" he kept dismembering words.
Her brows arched. The smile expired compassionately. "It was unkind of me to do this, wasn't it?"
"But—the picture—dark hair—" "That was my aunt's I sent instead." She shook her head in charming if belated compunction.
With the point of her long parasol she began to trace cabalistic designs in the dust. She dropped her eyes and watched what she was doing with an air of sadness. "She shouldn't have. I know that now.
But at the time, it didn't seem to matter so much. We hadn't become serious yet. I thought it was just a correspondence. Then many months since, I wanted to send the right one in its place, to tell you—and the longer I waited, the less courage I had."

marveled. "So much lovelier even-than—"
"That too entered into it," she murmured. "So many men become smitten with just a pretty face. I wanted our feeling to go deeper than that. To last longer.
To be more secure. I wanted you to care for me, if you did care, because of—well, the things I wrote you, the sort of mind I displayed, the sort of person I really was, rather than because of a flibbertigibbet's photograph."

HOW sensible she was, he discovered to himself, how level-minded.

"Am I forgiven?" she asked timidly.

He studied her a moment longer, absorbing her charm. Then suddenly, with new-found daring, he came to a decision. "Would it make you feel better, would it ease your mind of any lingering discomfort," he blurted out, "if I were to make a confession to you on my own part?"

"You?" she said surprised.

"Yes. I too perhaps felt just as you did, that I wanted you to like me, to accept my offer, solely on the strength of the sort of man I was in myself. For myself alone, in other words."

"But I see that, and I do," she said blankly. "I don't understand."

"You will in a moment," he promised her, almost eagerly.

"Now I must confess to you that I'm not a clerk's or a coffee-house house."

Her face betrayed no sign other than politely interested incomprehension.

"That I haven't a thousand dollars put aside, to—to start an office."

No sign. No sign of crestfall or of frustrated avowal. He was watching her intently.

"No. I own a coffee-house house, instead."

forced smile, such as women give in listening to details of a man's business, when it doesn't interest them in the slightest but they are trying to be polite.

"No, I have closer to a hundred thousand dollars."

HE waited for her to say something. She didn't. She, on the contrary, seemed to be waiting for him to continue.

"Well, that's my confession," he said somewhat lamely.

"Oh," she said, as if brought up short. "Oh, was that it? You mean—?" She fluttered her hand with vague helplessness. "—about your business, and money matters —?" She brought two fingers to her mouth, and crossed it with their tips. Stiffing a yawn that, without the gesture of concealment, he would not have detected in the first place. "There are two things I have no head for," she admitted. "One is politics, the other is business, money matters."

He stared at her with a new intensity, that went deeper than before; as if finding her as utterly charming within as she was at first sight without.

The shadows were growing longer, and they were all but alone now on the pier. He glanced around him as if reluctantly awakening to their surroundings. "It's getting late, and I'm keeping you standing here," he said in a reminder that was more dutiful than honest, for it might mean their separation, for all he knew.

"You make me forget the time," she admitted, her eyes never leaving his face. "Is that a bad omen or a good? You even make me forget my predicament: half ashore and half still on the boat. I must soon become the one or the other."

"That's soon taken care of," he said, leaning forward eagerly. "I shall leave your own consent."

"But—your consent?" she asked.

"It's given, straightway."

"Then—?"

"Then let's be on our way, they're waiting for us at the church the past quarter hour or more. Please delayed here too long."

Dixon Art Gallery Is Asset to Town

Any community would consider itself fortunate to possess and have access at any time to an excellent Art Gallery such as Dixon claims. It definitely helps maintain Dixon's standard of culture.

True culture is a follow-up of true religion and with their disappearance come corruption and confusion. The arts not only stimulate thought but bring keen enjoyment.

On December 14 the gallery opens with its second annual exhibition by Dixon Artists. It is hoped eventually to introduce at various times, famous and outside talent. So far, the Phidian Art club has sponsored and entirely financed the exhibitions for the community. They also purchase annually a painting for Dixon's permanent collection.

Any organizations or individuals would feel fully repaid by the community in stimulating the artists with rewards which would bear the name of the donor.

Remember beginning December 14 a new showing of paintings will be there for your enjoyment throughout the year.

EYE - GLASSES

One does not buy eye-glasses as a commodity such as sugar or coffee. One buys first the professional service which determines the value or worth of the glasses. Quality of frames and lenses as a material are of very importance.

By the way, one does not have to send to a small Canadian town to get better bi-focals. The best in the world are made right here in the U.S.A. Virginia Trotter Is Recent Bride

In a pretty October church wedding at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Virginia Hazel Trotter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trotter, 846 North Galena avenue, became the bride of Leslie John Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Smith, Jr., of 910 Hennepin avenue.

Church decorations included white lighted candles and red roses. The wedding party entered the church on a white carpet and the bride and groom knelt on a white satin pillow at the altar. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Virginia Bashaw who played "Always," "I Love You Truly" and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. White satin made up her floor length gown that was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves with pearl buttons and two pearl clips at the neckline. Her pearl crown veil was of white net edged with lace. She carried yellow roses. The bride's dress and veil were made by her sister, Mrs. Jean Van Matre.

Darlene Louise Trotter, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore an aqua floor length gown with a round neckline, puffed sleeves and net skirt. Her shoulder length veil matched her gown and she wore a string of pearls and long white gloves. Her flowers were pink roses and her gown was made by Mrs. Lamar Wells.

Gerald Roberta Trotter, sister of the bride and bridesmaid, wore a pink organdy floor length gown fashioned off the shoulder. She wore pink matching mitts and hat and one strand of pearls. Her bouquet was of pink and white carnations.

The flower girl, Margaret Hinkle, niece of the bride, wore a floor length gown of white taffeta with pink trimming and pink net skirt. She wore rose buds in her hair and dropped rose petals in the bride's path.

Dean Wentling was best man and ushers were William Trotter and Thomas O'Hare.

The bride's brother was present wearing a black dress with white trimming and black accessories and the groom's mother was seen wearing a black dress with white design and black accessories. Both wore corsages of pink and white carnations.

Reception at Home

A reception was held at the bride's home for 75 friends and relatives. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered cake and had lighted candles and a white table cloth. Miss Rachel Smith cut the cake. Mrs. Lamar Wells poured and Mrs. Jean Van Matre, Mrs. Esther Thayer, Mrs. Betty Denison and Mrs. Cleo Trotter assisted. Mrs. Harvey Hinkle had charge of the bride's book and Miss Kay Trotter had charge of the gifts.

Dixon Audience To Be Pleased Tuesday Evening

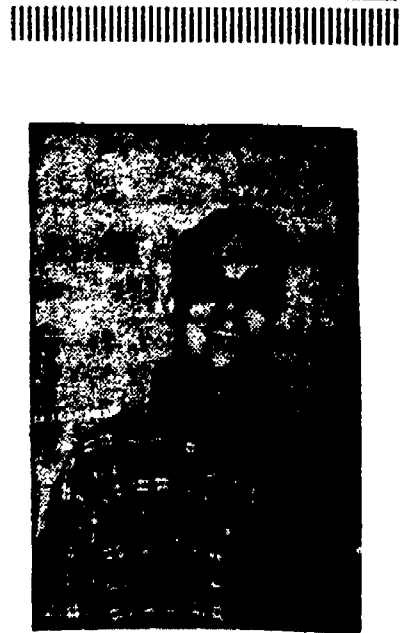

Tuesday evening, November 16, at 8:30 p. m. the stage of the Dixon high school auditorium will be the setting for the much looked forward to production, "The Torchbearers." The Dixon Watan-Ye club is bringing to Dixon that fine group of actors known as the Woodstock Community Players who will present in all their glory "The Torchbearers."

For a look into Who's Who in the east the name of Mykell Meyers stands out. Mykell came to the Woodstock Players directly from the Erie Playhouse in Erie, Pa. Her varied acting experience began at Goodman Theatre and has included seasons at the Cleveland Playhouse, The Belfrey Theatre at Williams Bay and the Can Park Summer Theatre in Cleveland Heights. Some of the many roles she has played are Belle in "Ah Wilderness," Elizabeth in "Elizabeth the Queen" and Tallulah in "Too Many Girls."

Another name of promise is Shelley Berman who worked in several stock companies in the east before coming to the Woodstock Players. He was associated with the Malden Bridge Theatre and appeared with the Goodman Theatre for four years. Probably his most impressive work was Ott Tobin in "Apple of His Eye" and the gangster in "Blind Alley." His wife, Sarah, is also an actress with the players.

Thomas Boyd will also delight the audience. Prior to his graduation from the Goodman Theatre Mr. Boyd played in numerous productions at Sioux Falls, South Dakota and at several straw hat and civic theatres around the country. After returning from overseas during the war he served as an announcer for the Armed Forces Radio Service at Fletcher General Hospital in Ohio. He has appeared in "Blind Alley," "Apple of His Eye" and "Outward Bound" and directed "Angel Street."

publics, the United Kingdom and the United States... the desirability of immediate conversations and of taking all other necessary steps toward the solution to the Berlin question, thus opening the way to a prompt resumption of negotiations for the conclusion of the remaining peace settlements for Germany, Austria and Japan.

While Evatt and Lie were discussing the final draft of their letter to the four powers, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky again lashed out at the U. S. and Britain on the Berlin issue.

Blanes Western Bloc He told the 58-nation political committee that the western powers had "wrecked" the compromise proposals on the Berlin crisis, is drafted by the Security Council neutral nations.

He maintained Russia's stand that the four-powers must agree on making the Soviet zone mark Berlin's sole currency before the blockade is lifted.

The western powers still insist the blockade must be lifted first. Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Bramuglia meanwhile was reported working on a new formula to end the crisis. He conferred with Vishinsky last night and was to see the other Security Council neutrals today.

The Bramuglia-Vishinsky meeting came after U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall told a news conference yesterday the United States was looking to the Security Council neutrals to see what they might propose in the Berlin crisis.

Air Lift to Continue Marshall also said the U. S. is determined the Berlin airlift will go ahead as long as is necessary. Bramuglia, in a radio interview broadcast to South America, said yesterday he was working on a "peaceful effort" to solve the Berlin dispute within the council.

He presumably discussed this new formula with Vishinsky but there was no indication of what the formula might be or Vishinsky's attitude toward it.

Last month's attempt by the neutrals to settle the Berlin issue failed because of opposing western and Soviet views on whether the blockade should be lifted before the Soviet zone mark became Berlin's sole currency.

Meanwhile, representatives of Greece and her northern neighbors, Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria, began preliminary talks on a settlement of the Greek problem.

Marshall in the course of his remarks has described the Greek problem as just one part of the world-wide problem affecting Soviet-United States relations.

SOCIETY

Dixon D. A. R. to Hear Field Rep.

The month of November for Illinois Daughters of the American Revolution is dated for Approved Schools. The National Board after their board meeting in October made a pilgrimage of six mountain schools in southern states. Headed by the President General, Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Brien, and conducted by the National Chairman of Approved Schools, Miss Edna S. Gibson of Buffalo they made their visit in a chartered bus from Washington, D. C. The Vice President General from Illinois, Mrs. Otto H. Crist of Danville, and the Librarian General, Miss Helen McMakin, as well as the State Regent, Mrs. Thomas E. Maury, of Aurora, and the National Americanism chairman, Mrs. Charles Curtis of Joliet, were the representatives from here.

In the meanwhile Mrs. George J. Cowan of Chicago, Illinois Chairman of Approved Schools, has arranged speaking dates for Mrs. Frank Dargan of Clemson, S. C., who is the field representative for Tamassee School of that state. Mrs. Dargan, before becoming a member of the Tamassee Board, served her State Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution actively. She has been a member of the school board for fourteen years, and Mrs. Maury, Illinois State Regent has been recently appointed to this board.

All through the state groups of chapters have been given dates to hear Mrs. Dargan speak about the work and needs at Tamassee. This school and Kate Duncan Smith day school are two institutions wholly supported by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Through the work of the Approved Schools committee of this society over 8,000 children, and young people, most of whom are of early American ancestry are aided with their education. In all there are 14 schools given financial help and encouragement.

Elizabeth Will Share Baby Gifts London, Nov. 12.—(AP)—A world-record baby shower for Princess Elizabeth's first born may overflow into many humbler British homes.

The princess has let it be known she would like other babies arriving the same day as hers to share many hundreds of layettes given to her by loyal subjects and admirers the world over. The birth of Elizabeth's baby is expected some time this weekend.

In London alone it is estimated that at least 350 to 400 babies will be born this weekend, in hospitals, nursing or private homes.

Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip, may share their baby presents with perhaps 100 or more of that number.

A similar course with wedding presents was followed by the princess when she married last November. Overwhelmed with gifts from all over the world she gave away some two dozen frocks and suits to other late November brides of her own age.

Months ago, even before Buckingham palace confirmed reports that a royal infant was expected, women of Britain and the commonwealth lands started making nursery clothes and organizing Elizabeth needlework clubs.

The idea caught on, particularly in Australia and New Zealand, which the royal family expect to visit next year. Sydney has sent 900 baby garments, hand made and embroidered. Melbourne, Brisbane and other cities are contributing, also.

Many commonwealth inhabitants as well as homeland subjects have sent gifts individually. An American firm is rumored to have offered daily diaper service by airlift, each diaper to bear the royal crest.

Clubs and organizations over Britain have sent messages pledging loyalty to the royal couple.

Elizabeth, who remains in excellent health and spirits, strolled in the spacious Buckingham palace gardens yesterday.

However, he told a news conference last night that the long-range price support features of the farm act passed by the last Republican-controlled Congress needs to be revised. Those features would become effective in 1950.

Record Corn Crop Benefits Hogs and All U. S. Livestock

Feed Supply Much Larger Than Year Ago; Prices Also Lower Than Ever

Chicago, Nov. 13.—(AP) Corn today is fed to hogs with a shovel instead of a spoon. That's the opposite of last year at this time. And it's all right with hogs, which don't mind eating anytime they aren't sleeping.

Furthermore, the little pigs of next spring's crop are going to find living — and eating — just grand. In comparison with the number of animals to eat it, there's never been so much food around for livestock.

It isn't just hogs which will enjoy this increased feeding. Cattle and poultry also will share in it. And, eventually, it will mean more food for humans.

By now, nearly everyone knows about the record-breaking corn crop. But there's a lot of oats, barley and sorghum grain. There probably will be a good supply of molasses — it's sprayed on coarse grains because then the livestock eat more of them.

The agriculture department today estimated "the total supply of all feed concentrates for the year which began in October is 23 per cent larger than the 1947-48 supply."

Careful Spooning Obsolete

"The big supply of feed in relation to livestock probably will mean a substantial increase in total quantity of concentrates fed to livestock. This increase will result principally from increased feeding per animal, although livestock numbers may also increase somewhat."

Much lower prices already have made it more profitable to feed corn to livestock than sell it as grain, even though hog prices are slipping. The careful spooning out of corn last winter, following the short crop, is no longer necessary.

In October, the agriculture department said, the average price received by farmers for each 100 pounds of live hog was equal to about 17.8 bushels of corn. This compared with the long-time October average of only 12.7 bushels.

Prices of dairy products are much higher than average in relation to feed prices. The department said in October dairymen fed their milk cows about 13 per cent more grain per cow than a year earlier, and about 10 per cent more than in 1946. Result: more milk per cow.

Eggs produced per hen in September, the department said, averaged about 8 per cent higher than last year, "and this also may be due partly to more liberal feeding per bird."

"At least as many cattle will be grain-fed this winter as last," the department added, "and the numbers of hogs and chickens are expected to increase in 1949."
